

MARINE SURVEY 2007

- Do you need to learn more about professional survey methods?
- Are you hoping to improve your species identification skills?
- Do you wish to participate in real research?

If you have said YES to all the above then read on.

In partnership with The Wildlife Trust's "South East Marine Programme", Medina Valley Centre will be hosting its 3rd marine survey week based on the Isle of Wight:

25th August to 1st September 2007

There will be master-classes and workshops given by acknowledged experts from the Natural History Museum, Bournemouth University and Emu Ltd environmental consultancy.

There will be a full programme of fieldwork, including biotope mapping on local shores, data analysis using a variety of software tools and boatwork in the Solent. The course is aimed at students and professionals employed with agencies and NGOs.

For further information and programme see:

www.medinavalleycentre.org.uk

Isle of Wight